

Treatment and Counseling

In the event of a sexual assault or rape, do not change your clothes, brush your teeth, shower, or use the restroom. By doing so, you may destroy important evidence.

It is important to be assessed and treated for transmitted diseases. Seek medical help immediately.

A mental health professional is available to provide counseling.

Seeking Relief for Retaliation

If you are being retaliated against by a resident of RRC staff, contract a worker, volunteer, or intern for reporting an incident of sexual abuse, you should report the situation immediately to a supervisory person you trust.

Disciplinary Actions for Making False Allegations

Making false allegations to report incidents other than sexual abuse will result in disciplinary actions and may result in charges being filed by the Federal Bureau of Prisons.
